

IUCN Regional Forum meets in Bonn

At the beginning of September, many Members and Commissioners from all over the European region met with the IUCN Director General, Council Members and Secretariat staff over 4 days of in-depth discussion on the draft IUCN Programme 2013-16. This was one of 11 such regional fora taking place around the world as part of the preparations for the World Conservation Congress in Jeju, South Korea in September 2012.

Currently out for consultation until 10th October, this document sets out the IUCN's intent for the next quadrennial period.

Under the forum banner title of "Switch to Action!", delegates brought forward forthright views on the need for a more challenging programme from the world's largest network of environmental experts in order to tackle the scale of issues we face globally and to achieve the IUCN vision of "a just world that values and conserves nature".

In-depth discussions took place around the two core programme areas:

- ❖ valuing and conserving biodiversity
- ❖ sharing nature's benefits fairly and equitably and
- ❖ three thematic programme areas:
  - nature-based solutions to climate change
  - managing ecosystems to improve food security
  - greening the economy

as well as how these objectives could be translated to implementation in a European region programme reflective of the global version.

14 of the 17 European National Committees (NCs) were present at the meeting and representatives from Germany and Ukraine joined the discussions on the future strengthening of National Committees. Voting rights and other powers for National Committees will be reviewed by the IUCN Constituency Committee and IUCN Council.

Notes and presentations from this most constructive meeting can be found on the IUCN Europe website at www.iucn.org/europe

IUCN UK Putting Nature on the Map (PNOTM) project

Land and sea areas in the UK where nature and landscape are given priority.

Designed to revise the UK information for the World Database on Protected Areas and encourage the application of IUCN Protected Area categories to UK sites, the first phase of this project nears completion.

After more than a year's work the latest product of the IUCN UK PNOTM project was launched on 27th June at a London meeting attended by government agencies, NGOs and support organisations from National Parks and Areas of Outstanding Natural Beauty.

As the handbook to assist protected area practitioners reaches its final edit, the next phase of the project involves assisting those wishing to assign IUCN Protected Area Categories to UK sites, data validation and promotion. To assist in the validation of data, it is expected that an IUCN WCPA UK Panel on Protected Area Categorisation (or similar) will shortly be formed.

New IUCN charity in the UK

The decision by IUCN to establish a new charity in the UK prompted an Extraordinary General Meeting at the 2011 AGM. Jane Smart (Global Director, Biodiversity Conservation), Hans Friedrich (Regional Director - Europe) and Simon Stuart (Chair, Species Survival Commission) attended to defend the IUCN's position and explain to concerned members the absence of consultation.

IUCN Members in the UK were reassured that the charity, to be established for a number of legal reasons, would be delivering the IUCN programme that was approved at the WCC in Barcelona and that Members were "sovereign" in this and subsequent approval processes. An apology was received for the poor communications and the Chair of the UK National Committee will in future have a seat on the Board of the new entity.

IUCN intend that the new charity, when established, will be based in Cambridge and will be called 'IUCN UK'. In addition to providing a secure legal entity for IUCN employees working in Cambridge, it will fundraise in support of the work identified in the IUCN Global Programme. In an attempt to avoid confusion between the two separate entities, the national committee will henceforth be known as IUCN National Committee for the United Kingdom
